

I am Jessie Yang, I have been actively involved in several volunteering projects over the past years and I really enjoy doing different kinds of volunteering works.

I am the Liaison Officer of UCL Volunteering Society for 2008-2009 academic year, I have been responsible for organising a few one-off volunteering activities. This has given me a firsthand experience on the procedures of providing a good volunteering opportunities for the students. I also participated in the VSU Steering Committee meetings this year. My role includes making sure the VSU budget spending and giving VSU advice on how to improve the awareness of the Units. I would like to carry the role in the next academic year to ensure the best for all UCL volunteers and encourage more students to take part in volunteering works.

If I am elected, I will

- promote campaigns about volunteering works in the Union
- encourage the development of volunteering at UCL
- make the students more aware of the volunteering events which they can take part
- get to regular feedback from volunteers and ensure their needs are met
